EVENTS

1. 'Satellite Surveillance in the 21st Century' with Hal Kempfer

22 September

Online

With the proliferation of global satellite coverage being revolutionized thru strings of microsattellites, the "persistent presence" ability to have 24/7 coverage via the visual spectrum, infrared and synthetic aperture radar has become a reality. New capabilities are yielding new applications in assessing supply chain challenges stemming from natural, man-made or systemic causes, critical infrastructure, agriculture, disasters and war, ships and more.

Hal Kempfer is a retired Marine Corps/Military intelligence Officer (LtCol) and is a prolific SME trainer utilised within the DHS sponsored intelligence fusion centre program.

2. 'Intelligence in the South China Sea' with Chris Merritt

27 September

Online

Join host Michael J. Ard for a curated discussion with Christopher Merritt, who has over twenty years of Maritime Domain Awareness (MDA) analytic, advising, and capacity building experience. Merritt's analytic tours include the U.S. Coast Guard Intelligence Coordination Center, the Office of Naval Intelligence, U.S. Indo-Pacific Command Joint Intelligence Center Pacific, and the Naval Criminal Investigative Service.

3. 'Suitors, Spies, and Splendor: Elizabeth I' with Carol Ann Lloyd

28 September

Online

Mary I was the first crowned regnant Queen of England, and Elizabeth I was the second. The succession of another Queen was unwelcome, but Elizabeth was determined to win the good will of the people and establish a successful reign. This is the fourth of five talks on Tudor rule in England, which examines how Elizabeth set herself up at the centre of court with her ministers keeping court around her. Hear from Carol Ann Lloyd, a popular speaker and author who brings the stories of English history to life.

4. 'Virtual Spy Chat' with David Marlowe

29 September

Online

Join Chris Costa, Executive Director of the Spy Museum, and David Marlowe, CIA Deputy Director of Operations, for an online discussion of the latest intelligence, national security, and terrorism issues in the news.

David Marlowe is a veteran intelligence officer who became a Deputy Director in June 2021. He has served with the CIA for over 30 years. He has previously been the senior officer directing operations in the Counterterrorism Center. Marlowe has served overseas as the senior CIA station chief in undisclosed locations that are acknowledged by the CIA to be 'several of the largest and most complex environments, including war zones.'

5. 'World War II Homefront: Spies, Saboteurs, and Sympathisers' with Robert Brenner

30 September

Online

In honour of George Washington's birthday on February, 20th, 1939, over 20,000 Nazi sympathizers gathered in Madison Square Garden to cheer Adolph Hitler and boo "Franklin Rosenfeld" and the "Jew Deal." This is the untold story of New York City in the run-up to World War II, and the Nazi agents and affiliates that lurked in its shadows. Join historian and New York City tour guide Robert Brenner for a virtual exploration of an unsettling period in the city's past.

6. 'SOE Agent Virginia Hall and the New York Post' with Clare Hubbard-Hall

2 October

Online

In August 1941 the Special Operations Executive (SOE) dispatched the American national, Virginia Hall, under the cover identity of a correspondent for the New York Post. During this talk, Claire Hubbard-Hall will examine the complex organisational issues surrounding the maintenance of cover while reporting in areas of conflict and the risk involved.

Dr Claire Hubbard-Hall is a Senior Lecturer in History at Bishop Grosseteste University, where she leads on the Military History programme, and is currently writing a book about women in intelligence, Miss Money Penny: The forgotten women of British Intelligence (Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 2024).

7. 'Anglo-American Clandestine Cooperation' with Thomas Maguire and David Gioe

12 October

All Souls College, Oxford

This event will evaluate what explains the ups, downs, and endurance of the several intelligence partnerships that form part of the Special Relationship. Drawing on original research from the Cold War through to the present day, Tom and Dave emphasise the importance of breaking this intelligence relationship down into its constituent parts when analysing its characteristics and drivers, for not all have looked the same or responded to the same imperatives and influences. This forms part of a wider series organised by the University of Oxford's Centre for the Changing Character of War and King's College London's Defence Studies Department re-evaluating different features of Anglo-American strategic relations.
